①	With respect to the “Period between the Designated Monetary Policy Meeting Dates” for BOJ Meeting TONA Futures, the draft proposal defines it as "the period from the last day of a given set of Designated Monetary Policy Meeting Dates to the business day immediately preceding the last day of the next Designated Monetary Policy Meeting Dates." By contrast, in the OIS market, the reference period is "the period from the business day following the last day of a given Monetary Policy Meeting to the business day immediately preceding the last day of the next Monetary Policy Meeting."	Thank you for your valuable comments. We will incorporate your feedback and revise the definition of the “Period between the Designated Monetary Policy Meeting Dates” in the Outline.
